

Development trusts working with ex-offenders

With support from:

Does your organisation work with offenders or people at risk of offending?

We are currently mapping the work our members carry out in their local communities to prevent offending and re-offending and we are really keen to hear from member organisations about any work you are doing in this area.

We recognise that this could be either specific services for offenders, or a form of integrated provision where you are delivering services to your local community, and offenders may be amongst the client group. We already know of a few examples within the DTA membership of initiatives and programmes working with offenders but we think this is just the tip of the iceberg, and we suspect there is much more going on which we don't know about yet.

- Read NOMS strategic plan for securing effective partnerships \(2008-2011\): Working with the third sector to reduce re-offending
- Read more about our programme, planned activities, and how you could get involved
- Read more about examples of successful work around the country

Please help us by telling us about your activities:

Your name: *

Your organisation: *

Your email address: *

Do you engage with offenders, ex-offenders, or people at risk of offending through any of your projects or activities?

Are you involved in the delivery of any discrete provision for ex-offenders?

Please tell us about some of your impacts and achievements through any of these activities

Submit